For example, create one for your personal emails and one for your work emails. In the edit pane, you can create your email using a simple editor tool. This tool allows you to use any font style if you want, and even get the pictures in your signature. In the Select default signature section, you can use the New messages or Replies/Messages messages pop-up menus when you reply to or forward a message, or select both, whether this signature should be used for new messages. Select OK when you're done to save your new signature. When you create a new email, you'll see the signature you set by default displayed at the bottom of your email. You can change the signature used in the email at any time by selecting Message from the menu, selecting Signature from the Insert section of the ribbon, and selecting your preferred signature from the drop-down list. The signature at the bottom of the email will change automatically. You can change the signature at any time when editing the email. If you already have signatures set up in Outlook, editing them is similar to creating new signatures. There are two ways to do this. When editing an email, select Messages from the menu, and then choose Signature from the Insert section of the ribbon. Select Signatures from the drop-down list. You can also access the Signatures window using the procedure above. No matter which way you access the Signatures window, select the signature you want to access from Select signature to select the pane that organizes it. You can edit this signature by using the editor pane at the bottom of the window. When you're done, select OK to finish editing and save the changes to your signature. Creating or editing your email signature in Outlook Mobile is similar to the desktop app, but the editor's flexibility is much more limited. To add or change your email signature in Outlook for mobile devices, the following procedure works for Outlook for Android or Outlook for iOS. The app is basically the same on both platforms when it comes to adding or editing email signatures. Open the Outlook app and tap the menu icon in the upper-left corner of the window. Tap the gear icon in the menu (this opens the Settings menu). On the Settings menu, go to the Mail section, and then tap Signature. In the Signature window, you can create a basic signature by using the on-screen keyboard. The signature is text-only; there are no font or display capabilities here. To save your signature, tap Done in the upper-right corner of the screen. Now if you open a new e-mail message to send, you will see that the signature automatically appears at the bottom of the e-mail. If you use multiple email accounts, you can configure a unique signature for each account. The signature appears automatically, depending on the account you are using.
